

about us

Converging in 2004, Prism Group realises our vision of providing truly integrated support for Managing Directors; we focus on aspects of general management that are essential to the effective running of a successful, modern business.

With our headquarters in Haywards Heath, West Sussex, we serve a growing need acknowledged by progressive, competitive Managing Directors everywhere: outsourced expertise.

If your Board lacks the time, knowledge or experience in key disciplines to take your business forward, you're not alone and it makes good sense to seek practical help from outside.

And if further specialist input is required, there's every chance it can be provided by our network of expert associates.

The support we provide is wide-ranging. Because effective general management involves specialist as well as general expertise, we draw on extensive experience in

- general management
- finance
- marketing
- people management

In the coming months, we're looking add to our experts, extending our range of specialisms to include

- information technology (IT)
- legal
- human resources (HR), and
- independent financial advice (IFA)

Prism Group's directors have extensive experience of building and developing businesses across a broad range of commercial sectors; while our years at the coal-face are matched by the breadth and depth of our professional qualifications, our reputation rests on our results.

Prism People

Everyone here believes that the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. It's why we take an integrated approach to helping meet our clients' commercial challenges.

When we look at businesses, we're "discipline neutral". For example, healthy cashflow may depend on more than just strict financial management. It may need a fresh marketing initiative. Or an injection of working capital. Or pointing the whole management team in the same direction.

As a company, we share a determination to conduct our business in a way that is ethical, considerate, transparent, and environmentally friendly; and we try to lead by example.

Making our experience count, building sustainable business momentum, and enjoying what we do, is why we work at Prism Group.
